SUMMARY

I am a highly skilled and detail-oriented software developer. My passion for programming ignited during my computer engineering studies in Iran, which eventually led me to Montreal in pursuit of programming and internet technology. Proficient in multiple programming languages, self-taught and classroom-learned, I also bring experience as a photographer into my repertoire.

I excel in leadership roles, embracing significant responsibilities, and consistently aiming for perfection in my assignments. Beyond my technical expertise, I thrive in sports, demonstrating proficiency across various games.
